

Arbela Health for Preclinical Life Science Rapid Deployment

Fixed fee, rapid deployment ERP for finance and operations

The preclinical stage for a growing life science company is as exciting as it is challenging.

Primarily, because as your company grows, the business grows too, that means more attention must be paid to systems and processes supporting the business side — accounting and finance, supply chain management, payroll, compliance, and more.

If you're a life science company approaching or in the preclinical phase of your evolution, Arbela can help optimize finance and operations, supply chain management, and other mission-critical business functions with a rapid, fixed price implementation of Microsoft Dynamics 365.

We've created a custom offering not just for life science companies, but for life science companies in the preclinical phase: Arbela Health for Preclinical Life Science Rapid Deployment - and have it up and running in 90 days or less.

What's a Rapid Deployment service?

Simply put, everything you need to automate and fine-tune finance and operations at this stage of your growth:

- General ledger functionality and features
- Cash and bank account management
- Accounts receivable and accounts payable automations
- Procurement and sourcing automation and optimization
- Project management and data migration

A future-proof platform

Built on Microsoft Dynamics 365 means your solution can scale and be extended as your business grows and changes.

With Arbela as your implementation partner, you'll also benefit from being able to add custom extensions, for example, workflow automation, data collection and analysis, customer engagement, and customer service, and more.

In short, the Arbela Health deployment services can be the first step toward the digital transformation of every business need from marketing to HR.
